Resources Global Professionals and Resilinc Announce Strategic Partnership

IRVINE, Calif., October 7, 2014 - Resources Global Professionals ("RGP" or "the Company") today announced that the Company has entered into a strategic partnership with Resilinc, the leading provider of supply chain resiliency solutions, to enhance its supply chain risk and compliance service offerings.

"We are delighted to partner with Resilinc," said Kevin Deely, senior practice director of supply chain risk and compliance. "This alliance enables our clients to minimize cost of reporting while increasing supplier participation rates across global supply chains."

The enhanced service offering includes the Resilinc Conflict Minerals Module™, the only conflict minerals product fully integrated with a multi-tier supply chain mapping solution, enabling conflict minerals compliance efforts to leverage the company's existing store of information about a supplier's sub-tier supply chain. As a result, not only are clients complying with conflict minerals but are also yielding real business benefits to the supply chain as well.

"Customers are demanding a results-driven and innovative approach to conflict minerals compliance," said Jon Bovit, chief marketing officer, Resilinc. "The combination of Resilinc and RGP for conflict minerals will drive savings opportunities and improve compliance accuracy through our unique proven approach and product capabilities."

To mark the launch of the partnership, RGP and Resilinc have co-authored a white paper, Turning Conflict Minerals Reporting Challenges into Competitive Advantages, which outlines key lessons learned in year one and how companies can benefit in year two. The white paper can be accessed HERE.
